Though " The Star" is printed on the lastest steam press in use south of Baltimore, its edition is so large as to require it to be put to press at an early hour, Adver- bers of the association was present, and after tisements, therefore, should be sent in by 12 | filling vacancies in the Board of management, o'clock, m.; otherwise they may not appear natil the next day.

DEAD .- The printers, especially, in this city, will grieve to learn of the death of the late John H. Trenholm, announced elsewhere in the Star's columns to-day. He was not only one of the first craftsmen-printers-in the land, but a gentleman of extensive and varied literary, classical and scientific attainments, rendering him an ornament to society, to whom none has been more useful in his sphere.

He leaves a bereaved widow and two orphans, to whom his wide spread reputation for kindness of heart, unvarying integrity, intelligence, and attainments, far beyond the average of the times, will be some consolation, we trust, for their heavy bereavement involved in his demise.

THE SMITHSONIAN MUSEUM .- This interesting department of the Smithsonian Institution is destined to be one of the chief attractions of visitors to the Metropolis; and the work of preparation for a speedy exhibition of all the collections to the public at as early a period as possible is progressing as rapidly as the proper arrangement of the specimens will permit.

We have before referred to the fact that the new arrangement and classification of the specimens is vastly different from the arrangement at the Patent Office; and, in addition to he room it gives for the display of many specimens and collections never before exhibited, it affords the visitor ample opportunity to thoroughly examine each particular article without difficulty. Up to this time, the cases for exhibition are those upon the floor of the hall; and many visitors have been delighted with the contemplation of the very interesting collections they contain. The complete acrangement of the galleries will add greatly to the interest of the museum; since in them will be arranged large collections never before exhibited to the public for want of room in the oid

It is the desire of Professor Henry that the galleries shall be ready for the inspection of the public early in December, and we learn from good authority that his desire will be gratified by the fu'filment of his directions to that end. The classification will be made by Prof. Bayard, the talented Naturalist of the Institution, whose well known energy is a sure guaranty that all his work will be accomplished in time, and the mechanical arrangements being assigned to Mr. John Varden, who for years has been engaged in this peculiar business, principally in the National Gallery, there can be little doubt of the galleries being ready at the desired time.

Once in a while evidence is left at the Institutution that ill-bred creatures sneak into the building when it is open to the public.

An instance recently occurred : Just before Gen. Zachary Taylor was confined by his last illness, Vanderwort, the artist, took a sketch of him for a portrait, but before he could complete it, the artist died. Shortly after the General died, and the sketch was deposited for preservation in its unfinished state. The painting was placed, a few days ago, in the corridor leading to the library, upon the floor, to await the preparation of a suitable place for it. One of those ill-bred creatures passing it, squirted from his filthy jaws, a stream of tobacco juice upon the face, disfiguring the entire painting. The painting was taken by Mr. Varden, and considerable time was spent by him in cleausing it; but the difficulty of removing the fithy blur, would almost induce one to believe that the poison of the fell w's heart had infected his jaws.

But of the galleries. The cases in the northern gallery are now being prepared, and the advantage of the new arrangement will be perceived at once by those who remember the crowded condition of the Japanese collection, of Commodore Perry, when in the National Gallery, when they see it in its present condition, so arranged that each article may be perfectly examined. Lieutenant Herndon's collection of the natural productions of the country adjacent to the Amazon river, and the specimens of the manufactures of the inhabitants, which has never been exhibited since its receipt in the Metropolis, now occupies a position in the gallery, and is very tastefully and conveniently arranged, and will doubtless attract much attention from the scientific as well as the curious visitor. The specimens of minerals, gums, woods, in their natural state, are numerous and perfect, while those of the manufactures are various, and some of them very ingenious and curious, well worth a long walk for examination. The African collection, deposited by Rev. Dr.

R. R. Gurley, formerly the Secretary of the American Colonization Society, is just being placed in position This collection also has never been exposed since its arrival here, some years ago. The curiosities of this collection consist principally of the useful and ornamental articles manufactured by the natives, in some of which great ingenuity has been displayed by the sable artisans. Water jars, baskets, bags, curiously ornamented gourds, cloth, pipes, clothes, &c. Among these we noticed a haversack, so skillfully wrought that we at first doubted its manufacture by a native A rude harp used by the natives will attract the attention and excite a smile with those who are acquainted with the history of that musical instrument, and know the perfection to which it has attained. Two brass coins, the one of about the value of $1.50, the other $3, are among the specimens. The size and weight of them would lead one not acquainted to suppose them anything else than money. There are many specimens of the charms or "gree grees," which the ignorant natives superstitiously believe will confer on the wearer health, prosperity, long life, good luck, or any blessing he may desire. The hammocks made by the natives are excellent specimens of their ingenuity.

After examining all those specimens of the mechanical skill of the uncivilized Africans we approach nearer to civilization, and proceed to inspect the work of the colonists at Liberia. The articles deposited are shoes, bricks, soap, palm oil, and molasses, made by the colonists. They give evidence of their ability to provide for their own comfort with the material obtained in that country. The specimens illustrative of the natural history of the country are not so numerous, but are very interesting.

We would remark, in conclusion, that the ornithological specimens in the Herndon collection are not yet ready for final arrangement. A complete classification of this department is to be inade by an experienced ornithologist, who will soon arrive and begin this important work. The ernithological collection deposited by Lieutenant Herndon is very beautiful, and will, when fully prepared, attract much attention.

The taste and industry displayed by Professor Henry and the scientific corps connected with the institution in the prosecution of the arduous duties devolving upon them, will not fail to be perce;ved and commended by the thousands of scientific and intelligent visitors to Washington who will spend much of their time in the halls of that magnificent and world-renowned institu-

THE THEATRE -The great historical drama of "The Iron Mask," the performance of which was postponed from Friday evening in consequence of the illness of Miss Parker, will certainly be rendered to-night, that young lady having sufficiently recovered from her sudden and severe attack. The effort, we need scarcely remind our reading public, is one of the most brilliant and effective recorded among the recent triumphs of the histronic art. So perfect is the simulation of Mr. Wallack in this extraordinary production that the effect borders upon reality, and it is difficult for the auditor to divest his mind of the belief that the oppressed and grief-worn heir to the Crown of France stands before them in the person of Mr. Wallack. The play is ably cast, and will create a sensation. On Monday night Mr. W. E. Burton, the greatest of living comedians, will make his first appearance in our city since the burning of the old National Theatre, of which he was at the time manager. This event occurred twelve years ago, since which period Mr. Burton has achieved a fame second to no comedian of the age. The support rendered Mr. Burton will be very effective. Mrs. Hughes, an able comedienne, and the entire Holliday street theatre company having been retained for the purpose. The renowned Captain Cuttle will be Burton's opening role.

THE ODD FELLOWS' LEVEE .- We hear, in all portions of the city, that the young ladies who have heretofore graced the Odd Fellows' levees. and been delighted, are thinking over their toilettes for next Wednesday evening. The promenade concert and lever will, as usual, occupy the earlier hours of the occasion, and sweet music cheer the assemblage. At 10 o'clock, engagement eards will be called into use, and pencils be in demand; the merry cotillon will soon succeed the stately march, and then, in turn, waitz, quadrille, gallopade and reel, will make the night joyous. A competent caterer will be on band with refre-hments, and all those arrangements which have on former occasions conduced so admirably to general enjoyment will be made. In fact, the Levee will be the success of the season.

NORMAL Association - The meeting of the Normal Association of teachers and pupils of the Lefayette Institute, Franklin Academy, and Western Academy, was held yesterday afternoon at Corcoran's Hall. A short address was made by Mr. L. C. Loomis; and the regular exercises proceeded consisting of examinations in Geometry, in which the pupils, both male and female, evinced much proficiency. Deciamations fol-lowed by Franck Taylor, J. Henley Smith, W. A. Hays, W. Sioussa, and E. S. Nadal, which were given in a very creditable manner.

METROPOLITAN MECHANICS' INSTITUTE .- Au adjourned meeting of the Metropolitan Mechanies' Institute was held at the Aldermens' room, City Hail, last night, Thos. U. Walter, Esq., in the chair. A large representation of the memthe propriety and expediency of holding another national exhibition was discussed. The Secretary read the report of the committee recently appointed to consider the proprity of this measure in its various bearings. The report first goes on to set forth the opinion of the committee that the present condition of the institute is far from credtable to the management, and not werthy the metropolitan character of the city. They recom-mend that a national exhibition be held in May, 1860, in Judiciary Square, provided the place can be obtained of the corporate authorities; that the building erected be allowed to stand until after the inauguration ball in 1861, when a considerable sum could be realized in rent. The committee think it would not be advisable to include an agricultural exhibition on account of the season being unfavorable. They also think that the coming exhibition should exceed, in every respect, those of any preceding year; and believe that this city possesses superior advantages, owing to its freedom from jealousies and rivalries which agitate more thoroughly commercial Mr. Mitchell believed that the exhibition could be given on the plan proposed by the committee for three thousand dollars to begin with; and he suggested that this sum be raised by subscription. He would almost pledge himself for the amount of one thousand dollars. Something should be done, or the thing should be abandoned altogether. He was not in favor of dissolving the Institate; it was of too much moment to young men. He had felt the want of such an institution when he was young; and there were hundreds and thousands of young men and boys going to destruction simply for want of some fostering care of this description. There was not a single room in this city open to the young, except that of the Young Men's Christian Association, which was thronged every evening

Mr. Bradley seconded the views expressed by Mr. Mitchell, and deprecated the decreasing in-terest in the Institute. He did not think that a orporal's guard could be drummed up at the subsequent meetings, were not something done to attract the public attention.

Mr. Stansbury spoke of the time when the Association was formed and of the broad scheme of usefulness which they then had before them, which, he feared, had been in a measure forgot ten. Among other things, they were to establish reading rooms, a library, a school of design, secure practical lecturers, and provide for an exhibition, annual or otherwise The speaker was for the exhibition as a means of carrying out the other parts of the scheme of the Institute as laid down in the constitution Mr. Brent expressed his entire co-operation in the views of the committee, and was pleased that a department of the exhibition would be especially set apart for the fine arts. Mr. Pepper was in favor of starting with a subcription, and offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: Resolved, That the Board of Management bave authority to hold a fourth exhibition, if, in their judgment, it shall seem expedient, at such time and place as they may deem proper.

The Institute then adjourned.

The Board of Management then went into special meeting, the President in the Chair. Mr. Mitchell, from the committee on the school of design, reported that a school of design would be found to be a source of great usefulness. The committee thought the course of instruction should be confined to architectural drawing, which would be under the direction of the pres-They recommended that it should be opened in December, the pupils to furnish their own drawing materials. Messrs. Stansbury and B. adley had consented to deliver courses of lectures-the latter upon domestic relations. The school should be kept in operation six months, and the cost would not exceed $250.

The Chair stated that it was his intention to ol a set of drawings which would be found of great use in teaching that art; and Mr. Janney offered the use of one of his rooms over his store for the purposes of the school The committee's report was unanimously adopted, and they were authorized to carry it into operatiou. A committee of twenty members was then appointed to make arrangements for the exhibition; after which the meeting adjourned.

THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS STOLEN FROM A COLORED MAN BY A GYPSEY WOMAN.-NECRO-MANCY es. CREDULITY .- A short time since, a respectable colored back driver, named Cornelius Clark, living on K street, in the First Ward, was most outrageously swindled by a Gypsey woman under the following circumstances: She went to Clark's house, after having previously ascertained that he had a sick child, and asked him if he wanted his fortune told, and was refused by Clark; whereupon she gravely informed him that he had a child which had been sick for several years, and that she could cure it in a few days. Completely mystified by the woman's hints, and desirous to afford his child all the relief from its unfortunate complaint, (it having been subject to violent fits for a long period,) Mr. Cla k brought his child into the presence of the pretended sorceress, who instantly named its complaint, and proposed to cure it in about three weeks. She demanded, and received, a retainer of $5, and then performed some hocus pocus over it, and laid it in bed. Under its head she placed the 35, wrapped in a piece of paper. Each day she visited the child, and each day demanded additional money, which Clark gave her, in sums varying from $10 to $40 at a time, and which she always placed under the child's head; and, strange to say, the little sufferer, who had been accustomed to almost daily attacks of its dreadful distemper, remained entirely free from them during the three weeks that this "medicine woman" attended it. At last, when Clark had given her ail of his ready money, amounting to about five hundred dollars, she informed him that she was about to place a spell upon the patient which would forever relieve it of its pains; but that she would require the sum of $2,000 to perform the operation with. Completely "bamboozled" by her arts, Clark went away and mortgaged his house and lot to the Bank of Washington for two thousand dollars, which he placed in the gypsey's hands, and which she disposed of as she had done with the previous amounts. She then made her victim shell out all the jewelry and silver ware in his house, consisting of a gold watch and chain, a number of bracelets, ear-rings, finger-rings, breast-pins, gold shirt studs, necklaces, silver spoons, and goblets, to the value of about five hundred dollars, which he placed in her hands. She now got ready for her last performance, and requested Clark to go up stairs and bring various articles, and a large napkin in which to tie up the valuables He soon returned with the desired articles, which she spread out, and laying, as he supposed, all the cash, jewelry, etc. in a handkerchief upon the napkin, made her dups take it by the corners and tie all securely together and lay it under the sick child's head. She then left and did not return again. After a few days, she not appearing, and he being afraid to distub the bundle for fear of destroying the magic spell, yet becoming suspicious that all was not right, sent to her boarding-house, where he was informed she had been gone from there several days. His suspicion was now sufficiently strong, to overcome his fears for the safety of his child, and rushing to the room he snatched the bundle and tore it open. What was his dismay at finding nothing within it but a few copper cents and some pieces of paper cut in the shape of bank notes; every single article of value was gone, and he ruined! The "fair Sybil" has not yet been found, although the police have been on the search for her whereabouts for several days.

A NEW ENTERPRISE .- Our City Surveyor is to-day engaged in laying off the ground on the corner of Ninth street and Pennsylvania avenue, at which point Messrs Perry & Brother conternplate the erection of an immense warehouse upon the si'e of the present stand of Clage t & Co. have as yet learned but little of the details of the proposed improvement; but, from reliable information which we have received upon the subject, we learn the cost of the improvement is estimated at $60,000. Sr. AndREW's DAY .- We learn that the Scotsmen of this city are maturing arrangements for a general reunion on the occasion of the next recurrence of St. Andrew's Day, (30th inst ) Supper is to be spread at Gautier's, in the best style of that famous establishment, and every arrangement which may add to the pleasure of the occasion will be made.

VENISON .- We dined yesterday at Hammach's, on ribs of ventson shot in the wild hills bordering Four-mile Run, within four or five miles of this city. The "subject" was a young buck, scarcely a year old, as fat as butter, and as luscious as a canvass back in the height of its seaon. We mention the fact becau-e at this time it is extraordinary to find fine venison in this market. How the deer came to find its way, unmolested, from the glades in the vicinity of Mount Vernon (where they are plentiful) to such close proximity to Washington city as the point at which it was "brought down," is a mystery The fact that it was found and killed there, will doubtless cause the hills skirting Four-mile Run to be abundantly hunted, immediately. Hammack, by the by, is just now displaying such a collection of game as we never before saw in Washington; including canvass backs, which are apparently ready to melt in the mouth of the gourmet. There were hanging in his larder, yesterday, some seven different kinds of wild ducks, partridges, pheasants, prairie hens, woodcock, snipe, robins, opossums, rabbits, and the venison whose praises we sing above; all in such order for the table as made it difficult for us to determine which we fancied most for the nonce. If it is a sin for one to love " the delicacies of the season," we certainly stand in imminent danger of never being forgiven; for we are utterly unable to comprehend the philosophy of being surrounded by the very best things (edible) conceivable, without "cottoning" to them with a degree of enthusiastic gusto utterly incomprehensible to the one who relishes Graham bread and overdone roast beef. ALLOPATHY US. HOMEOPATHY .- Editor of The Star : Dear Sir-An article has appeared in your paper, over the signature of Hippocrates, misrepresenting facts which relate to Homeopathy and to a enevolent enterprise. The members of every profession are bound to defend that profession from assault; upon this principle Homeopathy shall be defended, and, to save space, the simple truths and dry facts of Homeopa-thy only shall be presented.

The charge that Homeopathy requires little or no study is sufficiently answered by the fact that, in common with Allopathy, it is legalized by State enactment, and possesses its colleges. hespitals, infirmaries, and rational, State and county societies. res three-four hs of its practitioners among physicians who have commanded very excellent nd, in numerous instances, very em nent positions

As to the administration of "roisonous disease producing doses." the proofs are demanded. Has Hippocrates ever seen or heard any authenticated instances of Homeopathic poisoning? Does he wish the charge thrust home upon him? Does he wish to see the hideous array of abraded ulcerated wish to see the hideous array of abraded ulcerated throats and indurated glands, the disintegrated teeth and retracted spongy gums, the perforated palates and car.ous bones, the falling hair, the blindness and deafness, the trembling limbs and shattered nerves. to show the terrible results of calome!, arsenic, quinine, location, and opium poisoning? Need Hippocrates look far beyond the bounds perchance of his own professional field to see all these?

To charge upon Homeopathy results, in any respect whatever, resembling these, or the administration in any method of understanding these.

tration, in any method or under any circumstances whatever, of poisonous doses, is untrue.

With regard to "dailying with disease, suffering its victims to die for want of proper medication," a few facts are presented:
In that terribly fatal scourge, the Asiatic Cholera

the ratio of mortality under Allopathic treatment is from fifty to seventy per cent., while under Homeo pathic treatment it is only from ten to twenty per In Pneumonia the ratio of mortality under Allopathy is from fourteen to twenty four per cent; under Homeopathy. from five to six per cent.

In Typhus Fever the ratio under Allopathy from sixteen to twenty three per cent: under Homeopathy, from nine to eleven per cent.
In the various and severe diseases peculiar to the period of chilhood, one child out of fifty or seventy dies under Allopathy; under Homeopathy, only one out of a hondred and hity in all diseases which afflict humanity the ratio of mortality under Allopathy is about ten per cent.; under Home pathy, two per cent. So much for the relative mortality of Allopathic and Homeopathic treatment.

In regard to the mean duration, disease under Allopathy lasts from twenty eight to twenty nine days; under Homeopathy from twenty to twenty one days. The expense of midication—in hospitals at least-is under Allopathy, ten times as great as under Homeopathy.

The testim my substantiating the above—and much more which might be appended—has been evolved from examinations and tests conducted evolved from examinations and tests conducted.

with the utmost sorutiny by vigilant Allopathic phy sici ins under government appointments, in Homeo pathic hospitals, dispensaries, and infirmaries, placed side by side with those conducted in Aliopathic hospitals, dispensaries, and infirmaries, placed side by side with those conducted in Aliopathic hospitals, dispensaries, and infirmaries.

En passant: "Two of the leading Life Assurance Companies in London present lower rates of insurance to those who habitually employ Homeopathic treatment, statistics have shown that the relative marketing and the area in more consequent. mortality is much less, and the premium can consequently be diminished."

To the consideration of these facts Hippocrates is left, and his misrepresentation and abuse can be overlooked by one who, once a member of the Dominant school, acknowledges to have indulged in common with his brethren against the heresy of Homeopathy.

GEORGETOWN, Nov. 13 1856. We have rarely, if ever, known so general a quiet to pervade every portion of our city as has prevailed for a considerable length of time past. Our entire exemption from public disturbances of every character ought to be a source of general congratulation among the moral and order-loving partion of our citizens, when we remember how frequently the community was annoyed by such demonstrations some time back. The entire community seems to be drawn more closely together by a very praiseworthy fraternal feeling, to an extent rarely, if ever, enjoyed before, as a general thing. The last-mentioned very pleasant condition of society is we believe, the immediate result of the almost entire absence of everything like political bickering and strif-; and should. we think, serve to teach every thinking individual in the community, every lover of peace, friendship and good order, one important lesson, viz: to spurn hereafter every attempt to again lug national politics into our municipal affairs.

Our condition is such as to render us to some extent dependent upon every party represented in the National Legislature, and we think it unwise for us, as a community to unnecessarily place ourselves in opposition to, or render our selves obnoxious to any, to say nothing of the destruction of our own peace. We are for every one enjoying his own favorite political opinions, and using every fair and bonorable means to keep them in the ascendancy, and in elevating to pos s of honor and profit, under the General Government, his own political friends. But when we remember our disfranchised condition, we are forced to the conclusion that the conducting of municipal elections, and the management of our Corporation affairs upon national political principles, is wholly unwise, if not suicidal, and hope never again to see one of them conducted upon any such principle. That the general interest of the town has been more or less injured by it, both at home and elsewhere, none can deny, who have watched closely the working of things for several years past. The general good order which prevails in the town, we attribute mainly to the new police law and the efficiency of the police force; and we have been assured by several of the officers that even the plesent praiseworthy (to the police) state of affairs could be improved were their efforts properly seconded by those more immediately entrusted with the execution of the police

A fire occurred night before last, about tweive o'cleek, on the farm of Mr. Edmund Brooke, near the Little Falls, and contiguous to the main reservoir of the Washington aqueduct, which destroyed a large barn, stable, four horses, and a large quantity of provender, &c. Mr Brooke's loss, we learn, amounts to some $2,500, upon which he has no insurance. The fire was the work of some vile incendiary.
Our enterprising fellow-citizen, Mr. Vanderwerken, proprietor of the Union Line, for the better accommodation and comfort of the public. is having constructed in Newark, six first class coaches, which will be placed upon the line between our city and the Capitol, about the first of January. We invite the attention of the readers of the Star to the bill of fare offered in another column by our enterprising friend, W H. Tenny. The goods advertised are all fresh, carefully selected, and will be sold at prices to suit the times. We were misinformed in regard to the day the Georgetown Light Infantry, Captain Hollings-worth, contemplate making their first public prade, it should have been Tuesday next, the 16th, instead of Tuesd y, the 23d The offerings of beef cattle at the drove yards vesterday amounted to about 500 head, all of which were purchased by District butchess and speculatars at $3a$3.57 % on the hoof, equal to $6a$7.75 net. This shows an advance in price of at least 50c per 100 lbs. for the week. Sheep have also advanced from 50c, to $1 per head. They were selling yesterday, notwithstanding the large sup-ply in the market, at $3.83.50 per head. Hogslarge supply, selling at $5 87a$6.

We have nothing worthy of note from the mar kets this mo ning. No change in prices since
